

2006 IWJ Training Program

Student Organizer Training

February 17–20, 2006, Chicago, IL

Designed for seminary and rabbinical school students active in Seminarians for Worker Justice groups or interested in building such a group on their campus. Interfaith Worker Justice will train student organizers on how to build local student groups; to choose issues and campaigns that work; and to use creative strategies and tactics. Students will also have the opportunity to meet with others around the country and explore ways to collaborate as a national student network.

For more information contact Sara Wohlleb at swohlleb@iwj.org or (773) 728-8400 ext. 43.

Scholarships for transportation and training are available for interested students on a first come, first serve basis.

Workers' Center Training

March 4–7, 2006, Cincinnati, OH

Designed for workers' center organizers (staff, volunteers, worker leaders or Board members) in the Interfaith Worker Justice network and others interested in starting workers' centers. This three-day session will help organizers develop appropriate and effective strategies to help workers and build their organization; develop partnerships with government agencies, legal community, unions, and religious organizations; build worker membership and leadership in the center; and raise money to support the work.

For more information contact Jose Oliva at joliva@iwj.org or (773) 728-8400 ext. 25.

Cost per person for groups affiliated with Interfaith Worker Justice: $125 plus $250 for room and board (not including transportation to/from the site) Cost for others: $325 per person plus room and board.

Religion-Labor Organizer Training

• September 9–13, 2006, Chicago, IL

Designed for staff or leaders of interfaith organizations, religious or community outreach staff of unions, community services representatives, and organizing staff of faith-based organizations. In this training, participants will learn how to:

- Understand religious and labor structures.
- Develop appropriate and effective strategies for winning on issues and building your organization.
- Build an active and involved board of directors.
- Create and implement a media strategy.
- Strengthen partnerships between religious and labor leaders.
- Design creative interfaith actions.
- Raise money to support the work.

For more information contact Kristi Sanford at ksanford@iwj.org or (773) 728-8400 ext. 45.

Cost per person for groups affiliated with Interfaith Worker Justice: $195 plus $300 for a double room and $360 for a single (prices include board) Cost for others: $395 per person plus room and board (same as above)

 Limited scholarships are available.*

Interfaith Worker Justice
1020 W. Bryn Mawr Ave., 4th Fl. • Chicago, IL 60660
(773) 728-8400 • www.iwj.org